Historic Uptown

Also known as the Stockade District, historic uptown offers everything from colonial history to trendy shopping. Originally built in 1652, the 8-block area encompassing the stockade is the largest remaining example of early Dutch settlement in the state of New York. Established as the first capital of NY in 1777, Kingston's Senate House offers a step back in time. Often referred to as "The Cathedral of Kingston", the Old Dutch Church is one of the oldest continuously existing congregations in the country.

Dedicate a day to wander uptown. Stroll through the kaleidoscope of unique shops, restaurants, bars, galleries, markets and museums.
